

Trygve Kolstad Gimse, Center Coordinator with a wide range of tasks

Metro has always been a part of Trygve's life. He grew up in Lørenskog and attended school right across from Metro. In 2015, he started as an apprentice at Steen & Strøm while training in office administration. The retail industry suited Trygve, and in 2021, he was offered the position of Center Coordinator.

Why did the retail industry attract you?

During my apprenticeship, I was fascinated by the way a shopping center influences people, whether they are visitors or tenants. I discovered that shopping centers can play an important role for those living or working nearby. It's also an industry that is never stagnant; there's always something happening!

What makes your job so much fun?

It's the variety and being part of a small team where I assist in both marketing and technical areas. I enjoy the wide range of the tasks. From compiling footfall statistics and sales figures every month to more practical tasks as arranging marketing material in the center or participating in the many events we organize several times a year.

How do you find working at Steen & Strøm?

I find the opportunities within Steen & Strøm exciting, and it's great to be part of an international company with a strong local presence. At Metro, we are a small team with good team spirit, and we support each other. At the same time, we have an international owner, which means international contacts both internally and externally. This was not something I expected when I started in 2015.
